Wedding Song 'Crunchy Granola
Suite' by Neil Diamond
Honeymoon Italy, France, Croatia

"This image is a story about how wonderful it is to have brothers and sisters. Steven did not take his eyes off Jacqueline as she walked down the aisle until she passed his sister Jennifer. You can see he's glanced over to see her joyful tears, then his eyes were again fixed onto Jacqueline where they stayed for the entire ceremony."

A little bit special

After a fantastic engagement party for 200 people with 'all the trimmings' Jacqueline Vickers and Steven George chose their favourite Brisbane restaurant, Montrachet in Paddington, and asked master chef Thierry Galichet to create a special menu for themselves and just 28 guests. "We wanted an intimate wedding and having only immediate family and our bridal party allowed us to create a really unique day," says Jacqueline. Under perfect weather, the pair wed at St Stephen's Cathedral, Jacqueline feeling surprised at 'how calm I was!' as she walked down the aisle and took her vows. "We had really enjoyed planning the entire wedding, especially as it was small and manageable, and the whole day was very exciting," she says. Marcus Bell from Studio Impressions captured the personal and romantic atmosphere of the day.

Departing for a month-long honeymoon driving through Italy, France and Croatia, the couple were delighted to discover Jacqueline was pregnant, while they were in Positano. Their son William Steven George arrived in January 2010. A beautiful ending. ■
